CITY COUNCIL HOLD A SHORT MEETING

Take No Action On Old Home Week Celebration--Other Business.

The regular meeting of the Mayor and City Council was held on Wednesday evening, and there was very little business for them to consider. The mayor and the council delayed the meeting until 8.35 while they talked over the old home week celebration and it was the opinion of the majority of the council that nothing be done by the council until the citizens took some action in the matter.

At the meeting all of the councilmen were present and the following business was transacted:

Petition of E. W. Trefelien for permission to encumber Market square for building purposes was granted.

Petition of William J. Shuttlesworth to enter his house with the Wellington street sewer was granted.

A. W. Berry was granted similar permission on Hanover street for his stable.

The petition of the New England telephone company for location of poles on Chatham, Winter and Austin streets, reported favorably by Inspector of wires, and was referred back to the inspector with the recommendation that he find out if there are any poles on those streets that could be used.

L. A. Chamberlain's petition for permission to erect a barber pole on Congress street was referred to the board of public works.

Resignation Accepted.

The resignation of M. E. Long as a member of the board of instruction, to take effect May first, was accepted. Mr. Long stated that ill health made it necessary for him to resign.

Councilman Stoddard asked what had been done with the Gates street landing matter and Councilman Locke stated that he had presented that councilman with a set of the specifications and he had handed them back. It was his purpose to get the approval of the committee to the specifications drawn up and then ask for bids for the work.

Councilman Stoddard called attention to the poor condition of the plumbing in the police station and he suggested that the committee on public works ask for $700 to make temporary repairs at the station.

The auditor's report of bills amounting to $2,533.53, which included a bill of $600 from Crane, Goodhue and Ferguson, for plans and specifications of the new city hall were held up by Councilman Leary asking for information as to the bill of $600, stating that only $200 was appropriated by the last year's council. Mayor Adams stated that he could explain it to the council when he could get a chance, and suggested that the bills be paid with this exception, and this was ordered. Councilman Leary will be shown, and the bill brought up at a future meeting.

The council adjourned until May fourth, after Councilman Stoddard called the attention of the council to a shorter adjournment would be advisable on account of the old home week celebration.

TWENTY-FOUR INDICTMENTS RETURNED

Fifteen of the Number are Against People from Portsmouth

Portsmouth Case on Trial and Three Men from This City Naturalized

The grand jury for the April term of the superior court arose Wednesday afternoon and returned but twenty-four indictments, the smallest number for many terms. Considering the fact that there were thirty cases presented from this city, the number of no bills was especially large.

The prisoners will be arraigned this week.

Of the twenty-four indictments fifteen are from Portsmouth. The list is:

Helen King of Portsmouth, obtaining money under false pretences.

Adam Ozarek of Portsmouth, disposing of diseased hog meat.

Edwin H. Moody of Nottingham, aggravated assault.

Harry Brown of Portsmouth, breaking and entering.

Michael Daley of Portsmouth, breaking and entering.

James Graney of Portsmouth, unnatural and lascivious act.

Eddie Boyer, Arthur Lefelore and Raymond Dandurand, all of Manchester, taking a horse.

Horace Lussier and Lester Penagault of Auburn, breaking and entering and larceny.

Walter S. Rothera and John Stevens of Salem, illegally keeping malt and distilled liquor.

John S. Stevens of Salem, keeping malt and distilled liquor.

John Burns of Portsmouth, larceny.

Howard Spinney of Portsmouth, aggravated assault.

Daniel Visce of Portsmouth carrying loaded revolver.

Albert Kingsbury of Portsmouth, aggravated assault.

Harry B. Harmon of Portsmouth, forgery.

Evelyn Clark of Newmarket, illegally selling and delivering liquor.

George Collins, Frank Hutchins and Albert Kingsbury of Portsmouth, breaking, entering and larceny.

Joseph Simpson of Portsmouth, carrying loaded revolver.

Mary Driscoll of Portsmouth, illegally keeping distilled liquor.

Frank Blye of Seabrook, digging claims in violation of municipal regulations.

William Addison of Seabrook, digging claims in violation of municipal regulations.

James Sullivan of Portsmouth, breaking and entering.

Hugh A. Daley and Georgie Lewis of Portsmouth, adultery.

Tony Coren and Mary Scott of Portsmouth, adultery.

Civil Matters

The first jury case to be taken up was that of Mary A. Grant of Portsmouth against Margaret F. Marden of Boston, administratrix of the estate of Annie Barr of Portsmouth. It is an action to recover for services rendered during the illness of Mrs. Barr. The allegation is that the plaintiff, Mary Grant, made her home with the Barrs on Jefferson street in Portsmouth until she was 31 years of age, when she married; and during her residence there she, at the age of 16 or 17 years, in connection with the housework worked out as a seamstress in a tailor shop, and also took care of Mrs. Barr during her illness, which covered a period of several years; that she paid in money to Mrs. Barr, her stepmother, and it was believed by her that she should have the property at the death of her stepmother. The case was started Tuesday with the presentation of the plaintiff's case by Attorney John L. Mitchell.

During Wednesday the following were naturalized: Joseph Polchlopek, an Austrian of Newmarket; Kerall Nazarov and Jacob Millar, Russians, and Michael P. Morrissey, Irish, of Portsmouth; Charles Witkowski, Russian, and Edwin Collishaw, Nova Scotian, of Exeter; the Rev. Ida Partington, English, of Hampton.

issued a call for a public meeting to take up the Old Home Week plans. The call is as follows:

Notice

All citizens interested in an "Old Home Week celebration" for the week of July 4th, 1910 are asked to meet at the city City Hall on Friday evening, April 22, 1910, at eight o'clock to discuss the same.

HEARST ENDORSES TAFT

Washington, D. C., April 21.—William Randolph Hearst, former aspirant for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, issued a remarkable statement last night, over his own signature, in which he unqualifiedly endorses Mr. Taft. In doing so, also criticises in earnest terms the administration of President Roosevelt and in so many words warns the American nation against a renewal of the political domination of the former president.

"No one can talk with the president without appreciating and respecting his earnestness and sincerity," the statement proceeds. "Personally, I believe also in his efficiency. He has been one year in office and has certainly accomplished more in that one year than Roosevelt did in his first year."

"It is hardly fair to compare Taft's one with Roosevelt's seven, and yet I am not sure that even with that comparison might not be to Taft's advantage. Taft methods are not those of Roosevelt, but then Taft will probably not conclude his term with a panic."

"On the whole it seems to me that a quiet, earnest gentleman who came into office when the country was in the slough of adversity and after one year in office has placed the country on the high road of prosperity is quite as valuable a president as a more showy and spectacular person who found the country in the height of prosperity and left it in the depths of adversity."

Theatrical Topics

Primrose Mammoth Minstrels.

By pursuing a policy of progressive-ness, Mr. Primrose of the Primrose Minstrels, is enabled to offer a most refreshing entertainment of a very diversified character, this season, one that necessitates the employment of artists of the front ranks. First of all; having kept intact a band of musicians and a corps of singers, all of whose talents are of a high degree, this determined director of novelty amusements has devoted his main attention to the special feature department, which, according to the best authority, fairly teems with originality and interest.

The Primrose gigantic aggregation now includes besides a surprising number of musical comedy turns of extraordinary quality, several exclusive acts of wonderful attractiveness, foremost of which may be mentioned with singular achievement by the Ward Brothers, who will appear with the Primrose show next Monday evening.

A special added attraction for the engagements of the large New Eng-theatrical season is that old but ever popular stage story, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," as presented by Stetson's big spectacular company, which will be seen here April 26.

As in former years, Manager Washburn has equipped his sterling company with all new effects, and startling scenic, electrical and mechanical surprises are promised. The vaudeville and specialty numbers are said to be of the 1909 brand, while the negro melodies and the old southern plantation songs are rendered as only the genuine, southern darkies know how to sing them.

"Havana" April 29

The Shuberts' production of "Havana," the great London and New York musical success, with a thoroughly American cast is to be given at the Music Hall April 29 for the first time out of New York.

"Havana" comes direct from the Casino Theatre, New York, where it has just completed the second season.

James T. Powers enacts the chief play Samuel Nix married a Cuban belle. The first act which is laid by the harbor side in Havana, finds Nix among the crew of the "Wasp." He is fearful of meeting his wife when he deserted and his movements cause him to be mistaken for a revolutionary sympathizer. Nix is made one of the conspirators. He does not know what it means until sentenced to be shot. He is, however, finally recognized by his wife and she, of course, saves him from death. They are reunited and all ends in the usual happy way.

Not since "Florodora" was produced has New York seen a more funeful and beautiful show than this latest offering. Leslie Stuart who wrote the music for the former is said to have surpassed all previous efforts in "Havana," especially in the celebrated "Hello People" number which is the most discussed song of the year. Another number is "How Did the Bird Know That?" and there are twenty others equally catchy.

James T. Powers, the principal comedian, adapted the book from the English version, which is the best evidence that "Havana" is one of the most amusing plays seen in this country in years. Mr. Powers is surrounded by a large company and among the principals will be found Edith Decker, Ernest Lambert, Percy

Queer Accident to an Academy Student

Exeter, April 21.—The weather took a hand in the baseball affairs at the academy on Wednesday, and necessitated the cancelling of the Bates game in the afternoon. The dark clouds and rain of the morning made the afternoon look unpromising for baseball, and accordingly Manager Bacon word for the Bates team to remain in Lewiston. The weather, however, proved fickle, and the afternoon was ideal for baseball, the sun breaking through the clouds shortly after the noon hour, but the field was wet and the playing would have been

LEGUMMOTHERAPY

The Latest Doctrine Advanced by the English Vegetarians

Under the inspiring title of "legummotherapy" the advanced vegetarians have now classified the effects of the various vegetables on character.

There is a startling theory, if it is correct. Laziness, bad temper, lack of "grit" and ambition become merely temporary evils, which may be speedily overcome by timely recourse to the right vegetable.

Housewives, too, have only to work "legummotherapeutically" — to provide the right vegetable for the right temperaments, that is—and the serenity of home is insured.

The secretary of a company owning large vegetarian restaurants in various parts of London states that legummotherapy was thoroughly scientific and practical and he, for one, fully believed in it.

"The idea is to take various common vegetables separately and to analyze them," he said, "and after deciding what salt or type of proteid a patient lacks, to dose him with the particular vegetable which contains the highest percentage of that salt or proteid."

"To take an obvious example, Carrots, besides containing a large amount of albuminoid and other form of flesh producing and nourishing ingredients, contain also a high percentage of common arsenic."

"As everyone knows, taken in strict moderation, arsenic has a soothing and numbing effect. Hence a large allowance of carrots would be prescribed as an antidote for nerves or bad temper."

"As an antidote for listlessness and anaemia, nuts and walnuts in particular, afford another good example. It is common knowledge that all nuts contain a fairly high percentage of nitrogen, the extraordinary nourishing effect of which is well known."

"Then spinach, on account of the iron it contains, is recommended as a general tonic for people who are dispirited through lack of sufficient exercise or fresh air, while cauliflower and cabbage on the other hand, are rather to be avoided by the average man, since the large amount of useless fat they contain tends to vulgarize and stultify."

"Potatoes, again, despite their popularity, are a singularly bad food for character forming. Potatoes are composed almost wholly of starch, and though they may satisfy hunger by sheer bulk, they never really feed the organisms."

"Apathy and general 'mossiness' are the results of a large potato diet and so potatoes only enter into legummotherapy in a negative way, and are recommended as vegetables to avoid."

"And so on. But the thing to remember," he concluded, "is that we make no claim at all that the casual consumption of any particular vegetable by a meat eating person is immediately followed by the particular result."—London Mirror.

LITERARY NOTES

Strand Magazine for May
The Strand Magazine for May makes a very handsome appearance in its new "all over" cover in three colors. The design is a brilliant one, in which peacocks predominate. The contents are equally attractive. Stories by A. E. W. Mason, W. W. Jacobs and H. G. Wells will ensure popularity for this number apart from the highly valuable articles on "Color Blindness and Its Dangers," "The Detection of Blood Guilt," and "The Beauty of the Pollen." The color section on "The Art of the Dancer" will appeal to all who admire the beauty and grace of stage dancing. "Some Unrehearsed Stage Effects" are amusingly illustrated and described by the famous Punch cartoonist, Harry Furniss.

The May Wide World Magazine
The Wide World for May is full of exciting stories of adventure and queer experiences in out-of-the-way places. Gunner Adams of the U. S. S. Michigan recounts an appalling experience which he had in 1906 while the North Atlantic Fleet, under Rear Admiral R. B. Evans, was engaged in mine-laying. The two serials, "Travel and Adventure on African Borderlands" and "After Polar Bears in the Arctic," are continued.

comedy part, a matrimonial outlay and Bos'un of the "Wasp," with which character it is needless to say, he injects a fresh and bountiful supply of genuine footlight humor into the play. "Havana" will be a local attraction, since it is credited with being an exquisite gem of dainty music and picturesque grace. It enjoyed a popularity in England equal to that of "Florodora," running for two years at the George Edwards Gaiety Theatre.

The story of "Havana" tells a graceful little love romance of Cuba. Seven years before the action of the

Footlight Flashes

Latest advices are to the effect that Mrs. Patrick Campbell is "delighted" with vaudeville, as well she might be, considering that she is being paid a salary much larger than of the proceeds of the season's engagements. It is refreshing to know, however, that Mrs. Campbell is not depending upon her name in vaudeville, but is playing in a sketch which gives her an opportunity to display those powers which we all must admit she possesses. It is called "Expiation," and the scene is laid in a Russian prison.

It is to be a Manhattan opera house soprano who is to help out the Metropolitan opera company in its performance of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut" during the coming Paris season of that company, but it is not to be Mme. Cavallieri, as has been announced. Mme. Carmon Melis has been selected to sing the role of Manon to Caruso's Des Grieux. This will be the first time that this opera of Puccini's has been sung in Paris.

Among the many interesting stories told of the French opera house in New Orleans the one that stands out most conspicuously and which shows the keenness and enterprise of one of the early directors, De Bauplan, relates to the first production in this country of "Aida." The first representation of "Aida" was in Egypt, when the Suez canal was opened and when the khedive of Egypt had the opera produced as a compliment to the Empress Eugenie, whom he was entertaining. De Bauplan, after this first production, sent to Egypt and obtained all the scenery and properties used in the initial production and brought them to New Orleans and used them in his performance.

Allen Hinckley, the bass of the Metropolitan opera company, was recently quoted as to his opinion of the importance of newspaper criticism of music. "A broad, catholic, intelligent and discriminating criticism," said he, "is of measureless value in bringing the general mind in harmony with specific artistic endeavor. The true critic does much, very much, to diffuse art entirely from commercialism, and at the same time, characterize its value as an educational and moral influence. I think the future of opera in America in many ways will be shaped and determined by the good judgment of the critics."

COTTONSEED FOR FOOD

atest Yarn Sent Out from Washington

Washington, April 21.—With the cost of living constantly going up, to the annoyance of every class of citizens, from the economical housewife and the man who pays the bills, to the candidate for office, who must meet the charge as a political issue, the south has come forward with a new food product as a partial solution of the living problem—cotton seed flour.

The family tree of the cotton plant is almost as pretentious as that of Standard Oil, and has as many branches. The extent of cotton's dominion is bound by Oriental rugs at one end, and automobile tires at the other. It becomes part of the clothing of every civilized man. It masquerades very successfully as silk in one fabric and wool in another, and is cheaper than either.

Rise of Cotton Seed

Under the genius of American inventive and technical skill, cotton seed has risen from the position of piles of expensive refuse around cotton gins, to a position where it is almost as valuable as the lint itself. The oil is pressed out and becomes the basis of pure soaps and lards; it is shipped abroad and returned in highly refined shape as "pure olive oil"; the hulls and cotton seed meal have been proven one of the best and cheapest known feed for stock and as a fertilizer. Technical experts are endeavoring to perfect a paper made from the cotton stalk.

Texas has now come forward with the claim that cotton seed is no stone valueless as supplying a feed for stock, but as an article of human food. And the aggressive Texans have proceeded to prove it. In a burst of enthusiasm it is introduced as "the most delicious, most nutritious, most palatable, and most easily digested food ever known." Even more valuable still, it is said to be cheap and to cost no more than half as much as wheat flour.

Texas Enthusiastic

At present it is not on the market to any great extent, but is being manufactured in Texas, and the people of that state are preparing to push it everywhere. Members of the Texas delegation have introduced it in Washington, and a supply of delicious fruit cake, gingerbread and ginger snaps made from cotton seed flour were recently sent to Secretary of War Dickinson and discussed at a meeting of President Taft's cabinet.

The state of Texas has taken up the subject and is conducting extensive experiments, and State Chemist G. S. Traps has just announced the result of his analysis showing the chemical composition of the flour. The flour, he shows, has properties more like those of meat than of wheat flour and supplies the same amount of nourishment at much less cost.

Relative Value of Foods

The nutritive value of any food is measured by the amount of protein, fats, and carbohydrates contained in it. The most valuable of these is protein, the nitrogen-containing albumen like substance similar in character to the white of an egg. This is the kind of food that produces flesh and bone, not fat. Lean meat and the white of an egg are almost pure protein. Cotton seed flour, it is claimed, contains four times the protein contained in eggs and almost as much fat, and is twice as valuable as meat as a muscle building food.

A few years ago cotton seed was worth only 6 or 10 cents per bushel. The price now ranges from 45 to 50 cents per bushel, and the prospects are that it will increase rapidly. A bale of cotton weighing 1600 pounds will produce 600 pounds of lint, worth about $75 at present market quotations, and the rest is seed. A ton of seed will bring about $10 or $17.

Cotton producers are deeply interested in the oleomargarine law, and are advocating the proposed change in the law which will levy a uniform tax on all oleo of 2 cents a pound. The law now taxes uncolored oleo one-half cent per pound, and colored oleo is taxed 10 cents a pound.

T. Welch, George W. Chamberlain, Fred E. Quimby, Charles W. Tibbets, William K. Chadwick and Charles S. Carland.

The trustees subsequently met and organized as follows: President, Arthur G. Whittemore; first vice president, John T. Welch; second vice president, George W. Chamberlain; third vice president, Charles S. Carland; secretary, Fred E. Quimby; treasurer, William K. Chadwick; financial agent and librarian, Charles W. Tibbets; editors, C. W. Tibbets and F. E. Quimby; necrologist, Fred E. Quimby.

The secretary's report was a very interesting document. It was in part as follows: "The organization represented here today, has come to be one of the fixed institutions of our state. It has passed the chrysalis stage, and in its fuller development has won extended recognition not only for meritorious endeavor but for actual accomplishment, particularly for its valuable contributions to the historical and genealogical literature of this old-time commonwealth. The New Hampshire Genealogical Record, now in its seventh volume, is admittedly the best publication of its kind in New England. It can now be found on the shelves of scores of state and municipal libraries, as well as in the collections of the leading historians and genealogists throughout the country. The society now numbers eighty-seven members. The library of the society has been materially increased during the past year, and now numbers about 8000 volumes. About 75 per cent of these volumes are deposited in the rooms of the Dover public library, where as soon as they are properly accessioned they will be available for public use. The remaining volumes are largely duplicate numbers, and are still in the custody of the librarian of the society for exchange purposes."

The report pays tribute to the memory of Dr. Henry R. Parker, who died Dec. 29 last, one of the original incorporators of the society.

KNOX MAY DISARM NATIONS

Secretary Confident of Success of International Court Plan

Washington, April 21.—Ultimate disarmament of the nations of the world is practicable, in the opinion of Secretary Knox.

He believes the establishment of a Court of Arbitral Justice, to which nations of the world may appeal for the settlement of their controversies, will have the effect as its own natural consequence, of not merely reducing armament, but ultimately rendering large armaments unnecessary.

His plan for the establishment of an international court of arbitral justice, which was outlined in an identical note sent in the fall of last year to various nations, is said to be meeting with general favor and Mr. Knox believes that such a court will be constituted at The Hague in the near future.

LIGHTHOUSE APPROPRIATIONS SEVERELY CUT

Washington, April 21.—The omnibus lighthouse bill reported to the house Wednesday from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce carries $1,100,000, a reduction of $900,000 from the estimates of the lighthouse board. This includes $130,000 for a new relief light vessel.

The committee authorizes the removal of the lighthouse depot at Boston from Lovell's island to Governor's island. Admiral Marix testified before the committee that the light house service needed a depot there and that Governor's island was the only locality where an appropriate spot could be found. He said that the war department owned Lovell's island and in time of war would drive them out of there.

Admiral Marix added that Boston wanted Governor's island for a park and he doubted whether the city would allow it to be given to the service. The war department had ceded part of the island to Boston, and now the city wanted all of it. He estimated that the station the service would like to have on Governor's island would cost $75,000.

The committee included in the bill a provision authorizing the secretary of commerce and labor to negotiate with the secretary of war for the acquisition of a site on Governor's island for the station, despite the possible objection of Boston to the plan. The secretary of commerce and labor will next year appropriate $75,000 for the depot.

The bill carries an appropriation of $14,000 for a light station at Otter island, Me. No other provision is made for New England, although numerous recommendations were made by the lighthouse board.

The board recommended $20,000 for a fog signal at Boom Island, Me., and $200,000 for a new lighthouse tender to cover the coast from Maine to Narragansett bay, which were refused. Admiral Marix said the Myrtle, the present tender for the district, was too old for service. Admiral Marix told the committee he thought it likely that the Portland and Boston headquarters would be consolidated in the future.

An appropriation of $30,000 for a fog signal at Cutler harbor, Me., was refused and the same fate met a request for $30,000 for a signal at Little River Head.

FROM CANDIA TO SUNCOOK

A Plea for the Relaying of the Rails

The Concord Patriot publishes the following editorially:

The people of Concord are very unanimous in the conviction that the rails should be relaid on that railroad bed lying between Suncook and Candia. In our talks with citizens we haven't found one who is contraindicated, and to find such a one would be at cross purposes with expectation and we would immediately conclude that he was not a friend to the town, nor awake to what would be called fair dealing.

In the whole country north of here as far as Lakeport and Laconia the people who have business at Portsmouth, who are likely to have business there, or who would be benefited by better freight rates between that coal shipping point and where they live are of the same opinion in regard to this subject that we of Concord are. They believe like we believe that there is no legitimate excuse for eight trains going by Manchester to each Portsmouth when a shorter way may be had, and a much better way.

Just why the rails, having once been laid on this construction, were taken up again, and why a legislative body, supposed to be disposed to dealing justly with all peoples, ever consented to the taking up of the rails looking at it from this distance and in the light of conditions as they now stand, is quite a mystery.

The Concord and Montreal railroad has, or can get without trouble, the money necessary to build the connection between Suncook and Candia, and the only expense that the Boston and Maine railroad would be to, because of the building of this line, would be the interest on the money, which would not exceed $7,000 a year, and it would pay the people of Concord to make good to the Boston and Maine railroad that $7,000 if by so doing an equitable rate on coal shipments might be had and a corresponding reduction in passenger rates.

Much of the coal that is used in Concord comes from Portsmouth, and because it has to go around through Manchester, and the haul from Manchester to Concord, is pro-rated with the mileage from Portsmouth to Manchester, the price we of Concord have to pay is correspondingly greater.

And this is not the whole of it by any means, and really not the greater part of it—the greater thing is the wretched railroad service, between Concord and Portsmouth, and between Portsmouth and Concord. The run from Portsmouth to Concord should not, under any circumstances, consume more than two hours, and even that is allowing 25 miles to an hour, and yet even in the summer season, when trains between these points are crowded to suffocation, when traffic demands a first class service in every respect, we have time and again consumed hours between the two towns—this of course includes the long, wearisome, annoying, nerve racking time murdering, stop-over at Manchester, waiting for a connection with some train from Boston.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

Eczema Not a Blood Disease—New Remedy for Every Skin Trouble

For years the medical profession has been seeking a cure for Eczema, the most common and most stubborn of skin diseases. Some said it was a blood disease; some said it was the result of indigestion. It remained for one studious chemist to settle beyond any question that eczema in all its forms is a skin disease and related in no way to a disordered condition of the blood. This same chemist experimented with many antiseptic, healing and soothing agents, but it was not until he formed the compound Cadum that he at last realized that he had given to the world something that would bring relief or cure to millions of sufferers. Cadum ranks today with the great discoveries of the medical world. Its action is so positive that the itching of eczema is stopped immediately. People who have itched and scratched for years find sleep and rest as soon as Cadum is used, and in ordinary cases a complete restoration of the skin to a healthy condition is reached in two or three weeks. The soothing, healing effects of Cadum are almost instantaneous. Cadum is sold at all druggists. Trial box 10c; large box 25c. The small box is sufficient for trial purposes, and may be used not only for eczema in all its forms, but also for bites, pimples, blotches, tetanus, itch, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, urticaria, ringworm, chaffings, eruptions, sores, scabs, itching piles, scurvy, etc.

CADILLAC MEASUREMENTS ARE INCREDIBLY EXACT

Famous Johanssen Standards, Used in Construction Permit of Infinite Accuracy

The brain begins to grope blindly for comparisons when it is suggested that an inch beddivided into but a hundred parts. For even the hundredth of an inch is infinitesimally small to the average mind. What, then, if an inch be calculated in one hundred times one hundred parts—in other words, what if an inch be split into ten thousand parts, each with a definite, positive value?

"Hairsbreadth" describes the average conception of close measurement; yet if a human hair be split lengthwise into halves—or even thirds—one of the split sections will not measure more than the thousandth of an inch.

On measurements so fine as this the essentially accurate parts of the Cadillac "Thirty" are built; and the correctness and accuracy of these measurements are determined by a set of standards absolutely infallible, and with which it is possible to calculate in the terms of the ten thousandth part of an inch.

To the measurements established and plug gauges which test the sizes by these standards are set the size of Cadillac parts in the hands of inspectors.

The standards themselves are necessarily marvels of accuracy. They are made in Sweden by an engineer named Johanssen and are acknowledged to be finer and more infinitesimally accurate than any produced in this country.

To the uninitiated they appear only as bright little blocks of steel, of sizes increasing so gradually that two blocks, lying in adjoining spaces, appear to be of a size.

Placed together, the edge of one at right angles to the edge of another, and slowly twisted until the edges are parallel, the two blocks cling to each other as though magnetized. But there is no magnetism in them they are held together by a vacuum as perfect as could be produced in an airtight chamber, and it is impossible to separate them by a straight pull.

The surfaces of the individual steel blocks are so true, corner for corner and surface for surface, that atmospheric pressure holds them together. So small a thing as a fleck of dust caught between the blocks would destroy the effect, so when used they are carefully wiped free of dust.

Even heat and cold have no perceptible effect on the accuracy of the Johanssen standards, due to the process by which the metal is treated.

The Cadillac Company, manufacturing those parts of a motor car on which long life depends, because of the reduction of friction to the minimum, adopted the Johanssen standards on the policy that the greatest possible accuracy should govern the making of these parts, and because the Johanssen standards are conceded by engineers and scientists to be the most accurate made.

CONTRADICT ELIOT

Labor Leaders Talk of the Cost of Living

Boston, April 21.—The Journal today publishes the following:

"The efforts of the labor unions to increase the wages of employees is the effect of the high cost of living and not the cause." This declaration was made by several prominent labor leaders during interviews with a Journal reporter yesterday in an endeavor to present their side of the question to the public in opposition to the attitude taken by Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, at the dinner of the Massachusetts Reform club in Young's Hotel Monday evening. President Eliot at that time stated that the joint agreement between employers and their employees was largely responsible for the present high cost of living. Speaking of the building trades in particular, he declared that because of these joint agreements there had been an advance of from 30 to 60 per cent. in the cost of building all structures during the past fourteen years. This fact, he continued, had resulted in the housing space of the ordinary citizen, who earns from $15 to $20 a week, being reduced one-half, although he now pays the same price for this accommodation as he did for the larger space formerly.

These statements are denied by the labor men, who take exception to President Eliot's line of argument from its commencement to its end. "President Eliot is a good college president; but he is not an authority on labor questions," declared Arthur Huddell, general business agent of the building trades unions. "Nor can he ever be such an authority until he throws aside the prejudice and bigotry which is the result of his environment and is fair to the laboring man."

"His statements that the joint agreement existing between the employer and the employee in the building trades is the cause of the advance in the cost of buildings is quite similar to other statements he has made on questions affecting labor, all of which are wrong. The increased cost of material is the cause of the increased cost of building construction, and consequently increased rents. For this advance labor cannot be held to blame."

"Nor can our efforts to improve workingmen's conditions be blamed for the increased cost of living, for the wage follows the cost in the price of living, and not the reverse, as President Eliot seeks to show. The best presentation of this fact that I have ever seen was given recently by Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale University. These are the conclusions arrived at by one college man and with them I think the arguments of President Eliot can be answered satisfactorily. Professor Fisher says:

"From no point of view can the conclusion be justified that the main cause of the present rise in the cost of living is due to labor unions. The rise in cost is world wide, being felt in Europe and even in India, where American labor unions and labor leaders cannot by the utmost stretch of imagination be supposed to dominate the situation."

"Moreover, so far as American statistics show, such as those of Bradstreet and the department of commerce and labor, wages have risen only about half as fast as the cost of living."

Secretary Henry Abrahams of the Central Labor Union, while admitting that President Eliot's statements were solely caused by his convictions, did not believe that the former president of Harvard was qualified to discuss the labor question. He said: "No one respects Dr. Eliot any more than do the trade unions. Had he confined himself to the discussion of chemistry and mathematics, the two subjects with which he is most familiar, he might have been accepted as an authority. But when he branches out into the realm of political economy the weight of his utterances can be gauged by the fact that no political economist has yet considered him as an authority of that science. Neither has he ever been quoted. Very few outside of the building industry know or appreciate the many factors that enter into the construction of a building, and cost of construction is not the only factor. Practical knowledge is reference to manufacturing, either as an employer or a worker, is quite as necessary for actual knowledge of the subjects so freely discussed by Dr. Eliot Monday night, and on which he appears to have such strong views as the cultural knowledge, which only a university or college training can give. Is a necessity if one is to properly discuss university questions."

What would be the criticism of the president emeritus of Harvard if some of us in the ranks of labor were to discuss the results of the Harvard football games or compare the teachings of that university with those of the German universities?"

Other prominent leaders in the ranks of labor were interviewed on this question, and it was their unanimous opinion that neither labor nor the methods it employed to advance the cause of the workman was to blame for the present era of high prices. All spoke for the respect which they accorded Dr. Eliot as a college president and mathematician, but denied to him the qualifications necessary to an able discussion of the labor question.

"President Eliot never put on overalls and went to work with his hands as the rest of us have, nor has he ever faced the same conditions which daily confront the workman," declared Michael A. Murphy, president of the Central Labor Union.

You Don't Need to See the*Darning Basket for Six Months

Put your darning basket away in the closet—you won't need it for six months when you buy the first box of Holeproof Hosiery.

Darning is now almost a thing of the past. For with every box of "Holeproof" we give a written guarantee to replace any pair that needs darning in six months. Instead of taking out your darning basket you merely take out a coupon and get a new pair of hose free—Isn't that simple?

The makers pay 63 cents a pound for the finest Egyptian and Sea Island Cotton. Common hose are often made from cotton at 12 cents a pound. Yet the common hose sell for the same price as "Holeproof."

"Holeproof" uses 3-ply in the body and 6-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Ordinary hose are made from 2-ply yarn throughout. You pay no more for "Holeproof" but it wears six times longer.

Come in and see this hosiery. Note the style and comfort—see how light and soft it is. Then, if you can, continue using the common hosiery.

MRS. SHAW GRANTED DIVORCE

Cross Libel of Husband Dismissed and She Gets the Custody of the Boy.

Salem, Mass., April 21.—Mrs. Nettie, only living son, she said, was born June 30, 1897. Previous to his birth and after it, she got no sympathy from her husband, who seemed annoyed at her attempt to show signs of love and affection.

The third child, a girl, who did not live, was born at Scarborough Beach, Me., in May, 1899. She testified that at none of these births was the husband at home, although her husband knew of her condition. She said that after the births her husband appeared to show no affection toward her or her children.

She said she frequently tried to embrace and kiss him, but he repelled her, his usual phrase was "Get to h— out of here, you must be crazy." She said that later he said to her on one occasion, "You are not crazy, you are just a fool."

She said that he repelled her frequently with vile reproaches and language which she told the judge in an undertone. This treatment of her, she said, resulted in frequent spells of despondency and finally grew, with his abuse, until she was on the verge of prostration. His ill-treatment began, she testified, a little after six months after their marriage and continued growing worse every month until she left him in 1907.

Testimony in Undertone.
At this point Atty. Anderson drew still closer, and for 20 minutes questioned her in tones which only the judge could hear.

Later she said that from the treatment which she had described and the illness which she had explained to the judge she had collapsed many times, and in a period of less than two years, at each of which attacks she had grown rigid and unconscious and recovered to find herself weeping and unable to control her emotions.

The senator's presence at his home, especially, on occasions when she had guests, she said, was most disagreeable. He was always sullen and morose, and when she tried to speak pleasantly to him he snapped at her, and when she asked him to come and join her guests he nearly always refused, his usual pretext being that he wished to "take his shoes off."

These periods of collapse, she said, occurred at her parents' home in Portsmouth, at the house in Manchester, at her bungalow in Chatham and at the Hotel Touraine in Boston.

Nurse and Doctor Called.
The next witness was Mrs. Percy A. Legro, a trained nurse, and the wife of a Haverhill physician. Her testimony, lasting about five minutes, was carried on in an undertone, which only the judge could hear.

She was followed by Dr. William J. Jenkins of Portsmouth, N. H., who testified that he had practiced in Portsmouth for the past 18 years and that he had attended Mrs. Shaw at the birth of her sons. He testified in an undertone for several minutes and then said that he had been called another time to attend Mrs. Shaw at her parents' home in Portsmouth.

Gave Her No Sympathy.
Her second son, Eldridge Shaw, the Doan's Kidney Pills will do this.

Here is Portsmouth testimony to prove it.
Mrs. C. W. Ham, 130 State street,
Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I had my first experience with Doan's Kidney Pills about three years ago. At that time I was suffering from backache and a lameness across my loins and I knew that my kidneys were disordered. I resolved to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply at Philbrick's Drug Store. This remedy checked the backache and relieved the lameness in my loins. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions since then and they have always given me prompt relief. I know of many other persons who have tried them with the same good results."

She's a Daisy!

It's in the neglect of the little ailments that serious illness is made possible—not only that, but a headache or a backache interfere with one's efficiency as well as happiness and beauty. With health a woman can do anything and eat anything; but without it, everything seems to go wrong and act wrong. No matter what position a woman may occupy, health is a necessity and must be preserved. A careful woman keeps a box of Beecham's Pills always on hand. At the first evidence of illness

She takes Beecham's Pills

Ailments can be much more successfully combated when taken in time, but if neglected, they may give rise to trouble, pain and expense and possibly to serious consequences. Taken in accordance with directions, Beecham's Pills will be found efficacious—they are a boon to women, and make health and happiness more than possible. They are a wonderful tonic, purifying the blood, restoring the appetite and ensuring perfect digestion. Take Beecham's Pills in all cases of sick headache, biliousness, constipation, heart-burn, dyspepsia and the numerous other ailments arising from defective or irregular action of the organs involved and you will find

It is the intention of the management to make this week's show outclass all others since the change to the present policy of Vaudeville and pictures.

THEATRE FOR ONE MAN

Unique New Establishment on a Fashionable London Corner

At the southeast corner of Pen-broke gardens is the smallest, youngest and most bizarre theatre in London. The "Boudoir" is, furthermore, the only theatre in London dedicated to poetry. Its interior has been wonderfully decorated. Over a Greek altar, with its sacrificial emblems and Jovial votive offerings is a tripod supporting a Byzantine brazier inlaid with ivory and mother of pearl. The gold embroidery on the velvet portieres at the exits reflects the flame in the brazier. Tall palms alternate with bits of quaintly carved furniture, and a gilded Buddha squats in an illuminated niche.

The proscenium arch of the tiny stage is architecturally Greek. It is flanked by a beautiful colonnade. Backed by deep red curtains is the orchestra in uniforms of red. The seating is planned in crescent form, and in uninterrupted view of the stage can be had from any part of the house. At the far end of the building is the ornate library (or royal) box with arabesque furnishings. Other private boxes of different sizes and capable of holding from 4 to 20 persons are situated in the balcony; they are named after the muses: Calliope, Terpsichore, Melpomene and Euterpe.

On the left hand side of the theatre is a memorial tablet to Swinburne, and opposite is one to Poe. The theatre has been in turn, whatever its origin, a studio and gymnasium. Less than a year ago Vaughan Grey, a popular singer, looking for a home for his art, found this building and made it what it now is. For those who shy at plain language it may be stated that the boudoir is primarily a theatre in its appeal. Its performances demonstrate the synthesis of art forms to audiences composed of ultra-aesthetes.

Vaughan Grey, the controlling spirit of this theatrical enterprise, was educated in France. It was also in France that he established his reputation during two seasons at Nice and two seasons at the theatre des Capucines at Paris he achieved success.

Mr. Grey believes that poetry in order to be properly declaimed should be provided with the necessary atmosphere. To attain this atmosphere he finds that color and music are the chief aids. Apropos, one recalls the admirable effects obtained by Clifford Harrison, who accompanied his own recitations with piano music. But Mr. Grey maintains that a reciter who plays his own accompaniments dissipates the physical strength which should be held in reserve for the recitation itself.

One of Mr. Grey's most effective

ROOSEVELT IS STILL ON THE GO

Attnang-Puchheim, Upper Austria, April 21. (Aboard Roosevelt Train).—Although it was after midnight when the train bearing the Roosevelt party left Budapest, the Colonel was up at 1:00 Wednesday. During the stop at Vienna he got out and walked up and down the station platform for half an hour. As the train left Vienna a heavy fall of rain obscured the landscape and Mr. Roosevelt turned his attention to a vast accumulation of correspondence. For three hours the former President dictated without interruption to his stenographer. The letters and telegrams which reach Mr. Roosevelt increase in number daily. While many are from friends and acquaintances in America and Europe, the majority are from persons of whom the recipient has never known anything. Many received from those known to Mr. Roosevelt only by reputation. A feature of these letters is the unanimity with which the writers look to the former President for leadership of any cause in which they are interested.

From Constantinople came an appeal for aid in the establishment of an American college for girls. The request for a change in the itinerary that would permit Mr. Roosevelt to visit their particular city or town, received from numberless correspondents are very insistent. Upon leaving Budapest, Mr. Roosevelt was obliged to decline the invitation of the Bavarian government made through the Bavarian minister at the Austrian court, to stop over several hours in Munich today. At Budapest Mr. Roosevelt regretfully parted with Commander Andrew T. Long, American naval attaché at Rome and Vienna, who had accompanied the party since the arrival at Naples.

SECTION MEN ON A STRIKE

South Braintree, April 21.—A crowd of nearly 200 section hands employed on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, between here and Harrison square, marched into town Wednesday. Many of the men were on strike against the wages paid by the company and others marched with the strikers because they didn't dare do anything else.

All of the men are Italians and the leaders said they wanted $1.75 for a nine-hour day. They stated they had been receiving $1.60 for a 10-hour day. A great many of the strikers were employed in abolishing the grade crossing at Harrison square and Popes Hill and in constructing a four-track system at those points.

Last Saturday there was a similar strike, which resulted in the strikers parading along the tracks of the Providence division as far as Readville and then back to Boston, picking up the track section men as they journeyed. Arriving in Boston the reinforced strikers marched along the Plymouth division as far as South Braintree, where the first section ends. By the time they reached here there were about 200 in the party.

No violence was offered along the line and the strikers were peaceable, although the section men at work on the tracks didn't seem to care to hesitate after they were told to stop and join the line.

On Wednesday this maneuver was repeated, and the first attempt to get the workmen to leave was made at the places in Dorchester where the road has extensive work under way removing grade crossings and laying four tracks.

It is understood here that part of the strikers proceeded towards Boston from Harrison square, and the other half for this town. On the way out here the strikers approached every section hand found at work along the road and induced him to quit. As each man stopped work he joined the throng, so that when the strikers reached this place they looked like the advance guard of some army.

The men went to the Italian quarters back of the railroad shops, where the section men employed on the division between Boston and South Braintree live in small huts.

SPRING CANDIES

Maple Sugar Makes the Most Delicious of Bonbons.

Real maple sugar is such a delicious sweet in itself that it seems like gilding refined gold to boil it down with cream and nuts or to turn it into a fondant, but those who want to do so may find the following recipe useful:

For a maple fondant take three cupsfuls of maple syrup, two of cane sugar and half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil this mixture until it forms a thread an inch long when dripped from a spoon. Then pour it into a buttered pan and let it stand twenty minutes. At the end of this time beat it with a fork until it thickens. Turn the mass out on a buttered platter and treat it like an ordinary fondant. Then use in any way desired. Balls of the fondant may be pressed between the halves of nuts or rolled in fresh-grated coconut or squares or it may be dipped in melted chocolate.

Another delicious maple bonbon calls for two big cupsfuls of broken maple sugar and a scant cupful of rich milk or cream boiled together until a little hardened when stirred in a cold saucer. When this stage is reached add some chopped nuts, butternuts or pecan nuts preferred, and pour the mixture into buttered pans after beating it until it begins to thicken. When cold cut into squares. This also makes a nice cake filling if spread over the cake before it becomes too hard.

The Huguenots of Colonial days used to prepare what they called a "nut sweet," which was made from maple sugar, butter and nuts. It was slightly browned, so that a caramel flavor was added to that of the maple sugar. The sugar was put into a hot pan and enough water was added to prevent burning. It was allowed to melt slowly and then brown slightly. Nuts were added, either hickory or butternuts, or, if almonds were used, after blanching. The sweetmeat was then set in a cold place to harden, when it was ready for serving.

Maple sugar that has been melted and mixed with a little butter makes a delicious coating for cream candies prepared from white fondant. Coconut creams are particularly good when treated in this way.

When a little hot water is added to the melted maple sugar and it is allowed to cook a moment or two and to brown slightly while cooking it makes an agreeable filling for a cake, but care must be taken that it does not get too hard. If, when a little has been stirred in a cold saucer, it hardens before it is cold it has been cooked too long. If it is still liquid when cold it has not been cooked long enough. This is a much better way of testing candy and cake frosting than dropping a little in cold water to form a ball.

POLICE COURT

At a session of police court before Judge Simes on Wednesday afternoon, W. H. Noyes was arraigned, charged with malicious mischief in destroying two bicycle tires. He pleaded guilty and was fined $4 and costs of $6.90, and at the same time agreed to replace the tires destroyed. Edwin Moore was charged with being drunk and he was fined $4 without costs. George Brown, for a similar offence, was fined $4 and costs.

NICE GIFT TO PIERCE FIREMEN

On Wednesday evening the rooms of the Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen's association on Maplewood avenue was the scene of a very pleasant event, in the form of a surprise to the men of that organization.

The occasion was a presentation of a handsome glass globe by Cody Dana, which he delivered in a neat speech to the vets.

President Horace Gray, in behalf of the association, received the gift and a general good time followed.

The glass will be added as another ornament to the cosy quarters and will cover the handsome silver cup which the vets pride so much, won in a contest with the T. W. Priest crew.

The guard of the ships say there is certainly some class to Hurley's stars, and they are going to let loose on their spare cash to back up the Capt. against anything that the navy produces at this yard during the season.

LOCAL OBSERVATIONS

Portsmouth has believed from the first of the trouble between Shaws that Mrs. Nettie Eldredge Shaw would be vindicated, and the action of Judge Morton at Salem, Mass., Wednesday, in granting her an immediate separation and the custody of her child, bears out the belief of her friends. Had J. Philerton Shaw continued his suit, instead of withdrawing it, a sensation would have been sprung in Massachusetts that would have shaken some of the timbers. Mrs. Shaw has remained confident of the outcome and her loyal friends have believed that she would prove her innocence of all the charges made against her at the time of the trouble and she has. That Mrs. Shaw had been grossly libeled was firmly established. Her devoted father, H. Fisher Eldredge, has been convinced that there could be but one result and he had no doubt of the clearing of his daughter's name. Portsmouth friends are more than pleased over the action of the court.

Why not have the board of health make an inspection of the backyards in the business section and see if things can't be cleaned up a bit? Spring is here and it is time some one got busy. There is much that a live man could do in the way of encouraging the idea of making the city more attractive. Why not have some one to keep the sidewalks free of rubbish? The store keepers would no doubt agree to obey the city ordinance—not to encumber the sidewalk if the law is enforced to include all dealers.

A souvenir post-card from Fred H. Ward, received this morning from Manila, P. I., states that Captain William Tuthrelley, U. S. A., a New Hampshire boy, gave the members of the party from this state a royal good time, automobile trips, banquet at the army and navy club, Elks club, etc. The Portsmouth member speaks very highly of the kindness of Captain Tuthrelley.

Falling to see smoke pouring out of the big chimney at the paper mill or one thousand men marching over there every morning, the pessimists are shouting "I told you so." Don't get excited and remember the first thing to do is keep on booming it. The mill is going to go.

It will be like old times to see George Wilson, the old time minstrel, back again with George Primrose. Wilson has been in vaudeville for two or three seasons and was at Keith's only a few weeks ago. Portsmouth has been hungry for a good minstrel show, and it looks like a treat.

AT MUSIC HALL

"Little Albert Bellows" and Others Beginning This Afternoon

Bellows, Temple and Bellows, presenting "The Little Prince," head the vaudeville bill at Music Hall for the last three days of this week, beginning this afternoon.

This is an act of unusual interest and there is a wonder appeal to the theatre goers of the city in the one act drama, "The Little Prince." It tells the story of the regeneration of a common house thief and his pal, his woman partner, by the brief influence of a little child.

The Little Prince is awakened one night by the flashing of a dark lantern and by the jerk of a hand on his shoulder. He awakes to find these two rough specimens of city thugs at his bedside in threatening attitude. But he is too young to be seriously frightened, and in the course of the conversation that ensues, he wins the long untouchable hearts of the thieving couple, and in his pretty childish way, gives them an impetus toward better things. The act is peculiarly touching and gentle, and the heart interest is there, strong in the best sort of emotional appeal.

Little Albert Bellows is but five years of age, but his portrayal of the courageous little chap is as fine a piece of work as can be seen anywhere.

The work of the old Mr. Bellows and of Miss Temple is true to the characters they represent and adequate in every way. Every one who cares for the best class of dramatic work, that class having an appeal to the deeper, better emotions, should try and see this act.

There are other strong acts, and the latest released in moving pictures.

OLD HOME WEEK

For Public Meeting to Push It Along

A paper signed by half a hundred of the prominent business and professional men of the city was this morning presented to Mayor Edward H. Adams, as follows:

Portsmouth, N. H., April 18, 1910.

To the Honorable Mayor of the city of Portsmouth, N. H.:

The undersigned, citizens, believing that a call for a citizens' meeting to discuss an Old Home Week celebration, for the week of July 4th, should emanate from you, cordially ask you to call the same.

ORDER OF EAGLES HAD GOOD TIME

The members of Mercedes Aerie, No. 682, Fraternal Order of Eagles, assembled in large numbers at their quarters on Wednesday evening, where a smoke talk and social followed the degree work of the evening.

Charles Snider of the navy yard, who always has a load of funny songs and sayings was a feature of the program.

Jack Perreault, John Casse and Rodney McCourt added much pleasure to the occasion with songs, dances and recitations.

Cy Perkins of the U. S. S. Marietta, was there with a bunch of fun, and his recitation "Pipe Down, You Rookie," produced a bit that puts the yeoman in a class of his own.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ELDRIDGE

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte P. Eldridge was held at the Christian church in Rye at half past two o'clock this afternoon. Rev. J. D. Fenwick conducted the services.

Interment was in Rye Central cemetery.

The funeral director was H. W. Nickerson.

FUNERAL NOTICE

Funeral services of Mr. Alfred M. Lang will be held at the home, No. 25 Austin street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Almost any piano be it ever cheaply made will give the owner a certain amount of delight. The kind of piano we sell will cause that delight and satisfaction to increase as the years pass by. This is because they are made right, by people who have been making good pianos for nearly half a century. Think of that fact before considering the purchase of an unknown, especially if it is a low price one.

Why is it?

That a man that once owns a National bicycle, will not have any other make, if possible to buy a National. Because he knows what he is getting for his money, the quality remains the same year after year, costs a little more than some makes but is worth it.

Full line of bicycles, Auto and bicycle tires and Sundries.

Keep Cool

Coolness and comfort are just as important features of your summer shoes as correct style. You can get all these features in the new Regal Oxfords we are showing—and take our word for it, they are the smartest low-cuts produced this season.

REGAL OXFORDS

are built on special Oxford last—not ordinary high-shoe lasts, like other ready-to-wear oxfords. They never slip at the heel or gape at the ankle, but fit smoothly and evenly at every point. Regal quarter-sizes make it easy to get your exact fit.
